A cowboy wearing a light-colored shirt, a brown vest, and a wide-brimmed hat is riding a dark horse. He is holding a coiled lasso. In the background, another person on a horse is visible, and the landscape is a dry, hilly desert with sparse vegetation and a large mountain in the distance under a hazy sky.

On this page we tell you which of the new series we liked best—which is not the same as predicting which will succeed. If we could do that, we'd be home counting our money. The success of a TV series is one of life's great mysteries, depending on such factors as the night of the week, the time slot, the shows that precede and follow it, the competition, the way it's promoted and—who knows?—maybe even its quality. Our favorites, in no particular order:

The Cosby Show (NBC). Easily the season's best new comedy. The women are stunning and the kids are adorable in this half-hour comedy, but it's Bill Cosby's talent and inimitable delivery that make it all work—that, and the kind of humor that grows out of the situation, rather than relying on the usual sitcom formula of zingers and one-liners.

Paper Dolls (ABC). Glamour? Escapism? Soap opera? Beautiful people? Yes, this handsome, large-cast series has all these elements (that's what we like about it). But in addition to being pretty to look at, the story is well written and engrossing—like a good summer novel.

Miami Vice (NBC) is an unusual crime drama that's sure to be controversial. Indeed, critics of TV violence are already taking aim—or is that the wrong metaphor? The show is wry and savvy and tough yet handsomely filmed, with entire sequences done in a combination of music and videos. The creator of Miami Vice is Anthony Yerkovich, who wrote frequently for Hill Street Blues.

Who's the Boss? (ABC). Funny—Tony Danza doesn't look like a feminist. Actually, he's an engaging mix of macho man and liberated male in this half-hour comedy, and just right as a former ballplayer who takes a job as housekeeper for a beautiful executive (Judith Light).

Finder of Lost Loves (ABC). We'll admit it: we liked this series. The notion of rekindling old flames and finding long-lost loved ones is a corny but charming premise, and Tony Franciosa and Deborah Adair are appealing performers.

Hunter (NBC). There's a nice chemistry between Fred Dryer and Stephanie Kramer as two cops who reluctantly team up to foil their captain. Their plan is to be there for roll call, then go their separate ways—but somehow we don't think that will happen.

Jessie (ABC). If we must have cop shows this season, let some of the cops employ a psychiatrist—and please, Lord, let the psychiatrist be Lindsay Wagner. Amen.

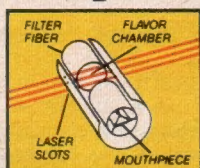

As always, a few pilots were not available for screening. But we have high hopes for one of them—CBS's Murder, She Wrote, with Angela Lansbury; it's been too long since the commercial networks offered a good old-fashioned mystery series.

That's what we liked; now it's your turn. Read all about 'em—then sit back and enjoy the season. (END)

More and more books are going down the tube. In their search for programming to lure viewers away from cable's hot movie properties, last year TV programmers turned to their local libraries and pulled from the shelves such volumes as Thomas Thompson's "Celebrity," Stuart Woods' "Chiefs" and Judith Krantz's "Princess Daisy."

This year, bookstores will be stocking up on, among other titles, copies of Belva Plain's romantic immigrant saga "Evergreen," Judith Krantz's lusty best seller "Mistral's Daughter" and the Ernest Hemingway classic "The Sun Also Rises." For those who prefer less literary TV pursuits, there will be the usual round of variety shows, pageants and spectacles, as well. Below is a sampling of the miniseries, TV-movies and specials planned for the 1984-85 season.

MINISERIES

A.D. (NBC, 12 hours) traces the development of Christianity in the Roman Empire from 30-69 A.D., and, like the historical epics Hollywood produced in the '50s, boasts a star-studded cast, including Anthony Andrews, of Brideshead Revisited fame, as Emperor Nero; Susan Sarandon, Ava Gardner, John Houseman, James Mason, Colleen Dewhurst and Richard Kiley.

Christopher Columbus (CBS, six hours) sailed the ocean blue in 1492. This season, his voyage—and the years spent seeking support for it—are dramatized, with an Irish actor, Gabriel Byrne, in the role of the discoverer. Also starring are Faye Dunaway as Queen Isabella, Max von Sydow and Eli Wallach.

Ellis Island (CBS, seven hours), based on Fred Mustard Stewart's 1983 best-selling novel, tips its hat to Lady Liberty by following the lives of four immigrants who seek their fortunes in turn-of-the-century New York City. Faye Dunaway, Richard Burton and his daughter Kate, Claire Bloom, Emma Samms, Ann Jillian, Milo O'Shea, Melba Moore and Ben Vereen, among others, co-star.

Evergreen (NBC, six hours) is yet another immigrant saga, this one based on Belva Plain's 1978 best-selling romance about a young Polish girl (Lesley Ann Warren) who rises from maid to wealthy matron. Armand Assante and Ian McShane play her love interests.

Mistral's Daughter (CBS, seven hours) is the Judith Krantz entry for this season. In it, Stacy Keach (of "Princess Daisy" fame) is Julian Mistral, a passionate painter à la Picasso. Stefanie Powers and Lee Remick vie for his attention.

Robert Kennedy and His Times (CBS, seven hours) stars Brad Davis (of last season's Chiefs) as the young senator making his bid for the Presidency. Veronica Cartwright co-stars as Ethel Kennedy and Ned Beatty as J. Edgar Hoover.

Space (CBS, 13 hours) is James A. Michener's chronicle of the U.S. space program capsulized for the small screen. Bruce Dern, Beau Bridges, James Garner, Michael York, David Dukes, Harry →

Hamlin, Susan Anspach, Blair Brown, Melinda Dillon and Barbara Sukowa play the men and women caught up in America's effort to be first on the moon.

TV-MOVIES AND DRAMAS

Biographies

Florence Nightingale (NBC) has Jaclyn Smith as the legendary nurse.

Heartsounds, on ABC, is based on Martha Weinman Lear's moving account of her physician-husband's massive heart attack and its effect on their lives. Mary Tyler Moore and James Garner co-star.

Lost Hero (NBC, four hours) features miniseries king Richard Chamberlain as Raoul Wallenberg, the Swedish diplomat who saved the lives of thousands of Jews during World War II.

Comedies

The Cartier Heist, on NBC, pairs Joan Collins with David Hasselhoff as a TV superstar and her male secretary trying to recover some stolen jewels. Whodunit? Telly Savalas.

I Dream of Jeannie: 15 Years Later (NBC) brings back the formerly servile genie (Barbara Eden) as a liberated '80s woman.

For Love or Money (CBS) stars Gil Gerard and Suzanne Pleshette as would-be game-show contestants who fall in love.

Dramas and Classic Remakes

Anna Karenina, on CBS, gives Jacqueline Bisset the meaty role of Tolstoy's tragic heroine.

Arch of Triumph, on CBS, is a remake of the 1948 movie based on Erich Maria Remarque's novel about star-crossed lovers in Paris on the eve of World War II. Anthony Hopkins and Lesley Anne Down co-star.

Aurora, on NBC, stars Sophia Loren as a woman desperate to raise money for an operation for her blind son, played by her own son Eduardo Ponti, making his acting debut. Daniel J. Travanti co-stars.

A Christmas Carol, a Christmas gift from CBS, features the redoubtable George C. Scott as Ebenezer Scrooge.

All anti-perspirants fight wetness.
But only one has Microstat™ to fight the bacteria that cause odor.

Death of a Salesman, on CBS, offers Dustin Hoffman as Willy Loman in the Broadway revival of Arthur Miller's play.

He's Not Your Son, on CBS, is every parent's nightmare: Donna Mills and Ken Howard star as a couple who discover that their infant son was switched with another couple's at the hospital.

Shattered Vows (NBC). Valerie Bertinelli is a nun who finds herself falling in love with a priest (David Morse).

Silence of the Heart, on CBS, stars Mariette Hartley, Howard Hesseman and Dana Hill as a family who must come to terms with a son's (and brother's) suicide.

The Sun Also Rises, scheduled for four hours on NBC, is Ernest Hemingway's novel about members of the Lost Generation coping with psychological scars left by World War I. Jane Seymour, Ian Charleson, Hart Bochner and Robert Caradine co-star.

Surviving: Family in Crisis (ABC) chronicles the effects of two teen-age suicides on their parents.

Family Fare

An Ewok Legend, on ABC, marks producer George Lucas's entry into TV. In this holiday-season treat, the Ewoks, those furry friends of Princess Leia, Han Solo and Luke Skywalker, come to the aid of a pair of lost children.

A Reason to Live (NBC) is the story of a father (Peter Fonda) who needs to be persuaded that life is worth living. Ricky Schroder, as his son, is up to the task.

Inspired by Yesterday's Headlines

The Atlanta Child Murders, on CBS, stars Martin Sheen, Jason Robards, James Earl Jones, Rip Torn, Ruby Dee and others in a two-part dramatization of the investigation into the baffling series of child murders that rocked Atlanta in 1982.

The Burning Bed, on NBC, tells the story of the Michigan woman (played by Farrah Fawcett) who put an end to years of wife abuse by setting fire to her husband's bed while he slept.

Walter Cronkite will explore the effects of the new industrial technology on workers in "High Tech: Dream or Nightmare?" and Bill Kurtis will look at organ transplants for CBS. NBC plans to take on killer satellites (Sept. 8) in a report called "Star Wars" and Roger Mudd will have several political specials.

The made-for-pay-TV movie has found a home—and not just on Home Box Office. Last year, HBO plunged headfirst into the genre and made a splash with several star-studded productions. This year, The Movie Channel, Cinemax, The Disney Channel and several other cable networks are joining HBO in producing even more original movies.

By contrast, the advertiser-supported cable networks seem to be taking a more conservative route. Instead of risking failure with new programs, the basic-cable networks have slated increasing numbers of old shows. At least a dozen retired network series, some dating back nearly 30 years, will be pumped back into the Nation's 35.7 million cable-TV living rooms. But despite the old series and new movies, the biggest and most reliable bait on cable's hook remains the recent, uncut theatrical film. Among the season's highlights:

FEATURE FILMS

(Available to all major pay-TV services except where otherwise noted.)

The Big Chill (HBO) received kudos for its sardonic look at yuppies who have turned into yuppies. A rousing rock 'n' roll sound track underscores the action.

Gandhi, 1982's Oscar-winning Best Picture, features Ben Kingsley (who also won an Oscar) in the title role.

Gorky Park (HBO) is the site of three murders in Moscow. William Hurt stars as a Soviet detective tracking the killer.

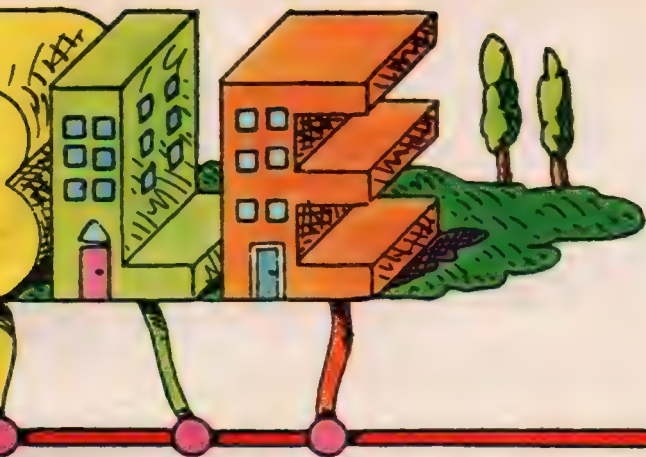

Never Cry Wolf (The Disney Channel) is a beautifully photographed account about a young biologist who studies wolves in the Arctic.

Never Say Never Again marks Sean Connery's return as James Bond.

Raiders of the Lost Ark stars Harrison Ford and Karen Allen in Steven Spiel-berg's creepy-crawly super-duper swashbuckling adventure. The Right Stuff, based on Tom Wolfe's 1979 best seller, celebrates America's first astronauts.

Scarface stars Al Pacino in the title role of Brian De Palma's gory remake of the 1932 gangster classic.

Silkwood features Meryl Streep as Karen Silkwood, an ill-fated worker who tried to expose mismanagement at a plutonium-processing plant.

Terms of Endearment (TMC) is 1983's Oscar-winning Best Picture, in which Shirley MacLaine and Debra Winger explore a mother and daughter's sometimes rocky, sometimes comical relationship.

ORIGINAL PROGRAMMING

Comedy and Drama Series

The Campbells (CBN) is a 10-part saga about a Scottish family that emigrates to the Canadian Northwest in the 1880s.

Out of Control (Nickelodeon) is a comedy series for kids that parodies TV news-magazines.

The Rick and Bob Report (Showtime) does the same thing for grown-ups.

Steambath (Showtime) is based on Bruce Jay Friedman's darkly humorous play about a Puerto Rican steam-bath attendant who is God.

Still the Beaver (The Disney Channel) reunites most of the original cast of Leave It to Beaver in an updated version of the sitcom that ran from 1957 to 1963.

On the Square (USA Network) unravels the ins and outs of home computers.

Made-for-Cable Movies

The Black Arrow (The Disney Channel) involves Oliver Reed and Fernando Rey in a dashing adventure story set during the Wars of the Roses.

Countdown to Looking Glass (HBO) is cable's contribution to the nuclear genre. In it, a TV journalist (Scott Glenn) monitors mounting tensions in the Mideast that culminate in a missile exchange.

Finnegan, Begin Again (HBO) stars Mary Tyler Moore as a divorced schoolteacher entwined in a relationship with an older, married man (Robert Preston).

The Glitter Dome (HBO) casts James Garner and John Lithgow as two burnt-out cops investigating the murder of a Hollywood producer in Los Angeles. Margot Kidder co-stars.

Gulag (HBO) features David Keith as an American journalist and Malcolm Mc-Dowell as a British spy trapped in a Soviet prison.

Louisiana (Cinemax) is a steamy saga about a fiery Frenchwoman (Margot Kidder) who struggles to regain the lost respectability of her family in 19th-century Louisiana.

Preppies (The Playboy Channel) saucily sends up the "alligator" life style.

The Ratings Game (TMC) asks the question: can a vulgar millionaire trucker from New Jersey make it as a TV producer? The answer: why not? Danny DeVito stars (he directed as well) with Jayne Meadows, Rhea Perlman and Lainie Kazan.

GOLDEN OLDIES

CBN is resurrecting several old series, including Laramie and Laredo, for its Saturday afternoon Western series. On Sundays, CBN offers 1969-71's The Bill Cosby Show.

The Disney Channel has dusted off (what else?) The Wonderful World of Disney, with (who else?) Walt Disney as host. →

DOCUMENTARIES

Arts & Entertainment Network weighs in with several arts-oriented documentaries, including programs on painters Paul Cézanne and Johannes Vermeer, and a look at folk singer Pete Seeger in "Pete Seeger on the Hudson."

HBO will telecast documentaries about drug abuse ("The Nightmare of Cocaine"), industrial pollution ("Poisoned America"), child abuse, Vietnam veterans ("Bush Vets") and gender confusion ("What Sex Am I?") as part of its America Undercover series.

The Playboy Channel features a profile of murdered Playboy playmate Dorothy Stratten; and "Sexcetera Special Report: Virile and Vigorous," which examines how men overcome psychological and physical problems to remain sexually active.

WTBS will present "American Caesar," a five-hour account of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's career, with John Huston as host; a Jacques Cousteau special that investigates cocaine smuggling in the Amazon River basin; and World of Audubon, a new quarterly wildlife series.

SPORTS

ESPN has to be hoping viewers will be so mesmerized by its potpourri of sports that they won't notice the absence of NBA games, lost last June to the ever-resourceful Ted Turner and his Atlanta superstation, WTBS. Helping to fill the vacuum, though, will be a new package of live college-football games, plus a full schedule of college basketball, twice-weekly cablecasts of USFL contests beginning in February, and three days of Davis Cup tennis, beginning Sept. 28. For those hooked on the network's more outré selection of football, ESPN will follow both the Canadian Football League and Australian Rules football right through their respective finals' high points on Nov. 18 and Sept. 29.

USA Network, which also lost the right to carry NBA games, will introduce a new monthly motor-sports magazine show, MotoWorld, in late October. That's in addition to such fare as college football and basketball, weekly NHL games, twice-weekly wrestling matches, and a pro-tennis schedule that includes the European Champions' Championship in November. WTBS obviously isn't wasting any time showing why it spent $20 million aching the competition out of their NBA cable contracts. The superstation's pro-basketball coverage of 55 regular-season and 20 playoff games begins Oct. 26 with the champion Boston Celtics vs. the Detroit Pistons. And if basketball's not your thing, there's also college football, auto racing (Nov. 4's Atlanta 500 and the Riverside 500 on Nov. 18) and regular-season coverage of baseball's (and Ted Turner's) Atlanta Braves. (END)

Dri-Weave Touch Test: Put a teaspoon of water on your maxi pad and one on new Always. Feel them. Always absorbs it fast and feels drier. We bet your pad feels wet.

Cleaner and drier even on heavy-flow days, new Always gives you a kind of protection that simply didn't exist until now.

Only Always has the silky surface they call Dri-Weave. Wetness passes through the Dri-Weave and virtually all of it stays trapped inside the absorbent pad, away from you. So the surface stays drier and you feel cleaner.

And Always maxi and mini pads are flow-shaped: thicker in the middle than at the ends. So you get protection where you need it most. With the widest adhesive of any pad—to help keep it comfortably in place.

New Always. A cleaner, drier kind of protection than you ever expected from a pad.

Say goodbye to the Captain. After 30 years, the Kangaroo is jumping from CBS in December. Bob Keeshan, however, the man under the Captain's wig, will be staying on to be the host of CBS Storybreak, a series of Saturday afternoon specials starting in January. The stories will be taken from children's literature and dramatized in a way aimed at getting young viewers to read.

An unlikely new face in the Saturday morning kiddie enclave is Richard Pryor, who is the host of a new live-action comedy series for CBS. Pryor's Place presents a neighborhood populated by kids, drop-in celebrities and Krofft puppets.

NBC is introducing its own Saturday morning live-action show, Going Bananas, with the unlikeliest new face of all: an orangutan named Roxanna Banana. (Any relation to Mr. Smith?)

New faces are replacing old in cartoonland as well. Tarzan, Fat Albert, Benji, Zax and the Alien Prince are being sent off, with the Biskitts in tow, from CBS's Saturday lineup. Instead, kids will see The Get Along Gang, comprising Montgomery Moose, Zipper Cat, Dotty Dog, Bingo Beaver (need we go on?), followed immediately by Jim Henson's Muppet Babies, a new animated series that emphasizes the importance of reading.

Last year's trend of turning video games into cartoon shows continues this year with CBS's Pole Position, featuring two "high-tech vehicles of justice": Wheels, a cautious Mustang, and Roadie, a sleek racing car. ABC is retiring Pac-Man, but is introducing Dragon's Lair, which, as any child with a quarter in his or her pocket can tell you, is an arcade game about Dirk the Daring's exploits in a medieval kingdom.

Another new ABC cartoon is Mighty Orbits, five robots that can join together to form a megarobot and battle any bad guys threatening our galaxy. ABC's Turbo Teen depicts the comedic adventures of a reluctant hero named Brett Mathews, who has a regrettable tendency to turn into a turbocharged supercar whenever his temperature rises. (We all know people like that.)

Music videos are also having an impact on cartoon shows. ABC's new Wolf Rock TV animates a group of kids who run their own music video station along with famed disc jockey Wolfman Jack (whose voice will be heard on the sound track). And NBC is introducing Kidd Video, a show about a teen rock group who, when they play a certain song, enter a door to the Flip Side, a dangerous land ruled by Master Blaster. His scam is to lure rock groups into his world and then steal their music. Holy video piracy!

NBC's other new cartoon entries appear to be spinoffs of successes. The Pink Panther and Sons shows us a more ma-

CBS has discontinued its Children's Film Festival, but will continue its longstanding Festival of Lively Arts for Young People, occasional specials that this year include a stage version of "Frankenstein" performed by the Minneapolis Children's Theatre.

Soap operas: The big news in daytime is the recent introduction of a new NBC hour-long drama called Santa Barbara. It features the eminent Dame Judith Anderson as the matriarchal Minx Lockridge, as well as such veteran daytime performers as Marcy Walker and Nicholas Coster. NBC's other sudgers have not fared well in the ratings, and matters are not made easier by Santa Barbara's tough competition: Guiding Light (CBS) and General Hospital (ABC). On Guiding Light this fall, psychic phenomena will continue to baffle Tony (Gregory Beecroft) and Anabelle (Harley Kozak) as they follow a trail of mystery to the Caribbean.

ture panther familias with conniption-prone kittens. NBC is also floating Snorks, an underwater tribe of creatures bearing an uncanny resemblance to Smurfs.

All three networks will be dropping in little capsules of educational additives during the cartoon binge. NBC will broadcast five One to Grow On spots (one minute, 45 seconds each) in the course of its Saturday schedule. Stars such as Mr. T and Sarah Purcell will talk about peer pressure, lying, sportsmanship and so on. ABC will offer three-minute exercise segments and one-minute spots on how to use computers. CBS (for the 14th year) will continue its three-minute news capsules, In the News.

On NBC's Search for Tomorrow, Cagney (Matthew Ashford) will have trouble escaping the clutches of that red-haired siren Justine (Leslie Stevens) and winning back Suzi (Terri Eoff). Another World's Sally Frame (Mary Page Keller) and Catlin Ewing (Thomas Griffith) are menaced by the mastermind behind the town's multiple murders.

For older kids there have traditionally been afternoon specials dealing with teen issues. NBC's lineup of Special Treats has not been announced. ABC plans to show 14 Afterschool Specials during the next year. Seven of those will be new. They include "Mom's on Strike," with Mary Kay Place; and "Summer Switch," about a father and son who envy each other's life styles and magically switch bodies.

CBS will be offering six new School-break Specials, including "Hear Me Cry," about teen suicide, and "The Day the Senior Class Got Married," about high-school couples assigned by their economics teacher to simulate the responsibilities of marriage.

Over at ABC, All My Children's Jesse (Darnell Williams) will find a new career and meet a nubile newcomer who will endanger his marriage. Can Mike (James Kiberd) on Loving face the frightening secret he has repressed since Vietnam, and will his new self-knowledge prevent him from saving the life of the woman he loves? Finally, on General Hospital, look for Luke's return to Port Charles and his reunion with Scorpio in a treasure hunt for which the prize is a beautiful young woman. (END)

TV GUIDE SEPTEMBER 8, 1984

EARLY STARTERS

Airwolf

Airwolf is a futuristic combat helicopter, a high-tech hummingbird that can hover and dart, fire heat-seeking rockets and fly at supersonic speeds. But only Stringfellow Hawke (Jan-Michael Vincent) can handle it. Aided by Dominic (Ernest Borgnine), a fellow chopper pilot, Hawke flies dangerous missions for The Firm, a secret agency headed by Michael Archangel (Alex Cord). When he's not working, the reclusive Hawke repairs to his mountain retreat, where he serenades eagles with a cello. So, prime time now has three vehicular superheroes: a car, a motorcycle and a chopper. Have they finally run out of machines to soup up? Don't count on it, folks. You have your tanks, your jeeps, your unicycles, your fire engines, your kiddie carts, your mopeds. . . . ABC. Pictured (l.-r.): Ernest Borgnine, Jan-Michael Vincent.

Call to Glory

What were you doing in the early '60s? It was a time of activism and upheaval—sit-ins, the Cuban Missile Crisis, protests, JFK and Camelot. In this series the era is seen largely through the eyes of a single family: that of Raynor Sarnac (Craig T. Nelson), an Air Force colonel who commands a group of reconnaissance pilots. Sarnac, his pilots and their families are among the first to be affected by some of the dramatic events of the period. Cindy Pickett, Keenan Wynn, Elisabeth Shue, Gabriel Damon and David Hollander also star in this limited-run series, which blends the realism of Hill Street Blues with the warmth of Family and may be an early replacement series. ABC. Pictured (clockwise from top right): Cindy Pickett, David Hollander, Craig T. Nelson, Gabriel Damon, Elisabeth Shue, Keenan Wynn.

Foul-Ups, Bleeps & Blunders

Welcome to Fool-Ups, Blips & Blenders—whoops! We've made a boo-boo. But that's what this show is all about. A man shingling a house leans over to pick up a tool on his scaffold—which suddenly collapses. On the set of Oh Madeline, a slightly confused woman spectator wanders onto the stage and into the middle of a scene; Madeline Kahn stands there with her mouth open. Hosts Steve Lawrence and Don Rickles add their own goofy banter to the material the show specializes in: outtakes from movies and TV series, botched commercials, anchormen blowing their lines. "I hate myself for laughing at this," said a friend of ours. Then came a clip of a reporter asking a 104-year-old man, "What is the secret of your longevity?" The centenarian squints up at him and says, "What?" We heard somebody laughing. ABC. Pictured (l.-r.): Don Rickles, Steve Lawrence.

Kate & Allie

Longtime friends Kate McArdle (Susan Saint James) and Allie Lowell (Jane Curtin) are now divorced women with kids. Kate has a daughter, Emma, 14 (Ari Meyers); Allie has a daughter, Jenny, also 14 (Allison Smith), and a son, Chip, 8 (Frederick Koehler). To make ends meet, they all share an apartment in New York City. Kate and Allie have their differences—and their problems. Kate has a friendly divorce; Allie hates her ex, who dumped her after she put him through medical school. And there are problems with the kids, as when Chip decides he wants to live with his father. So why are these women smiling? Because they're friends; because they're survivors; because they're making this arrangement work; and maybe because their series, which started in March, was that miracle of TV miracles, an instant hit. CBS. Pictured (l.-r.): Jane Curtin, Susan Saint James.

EARLY STARTERS

Night Court

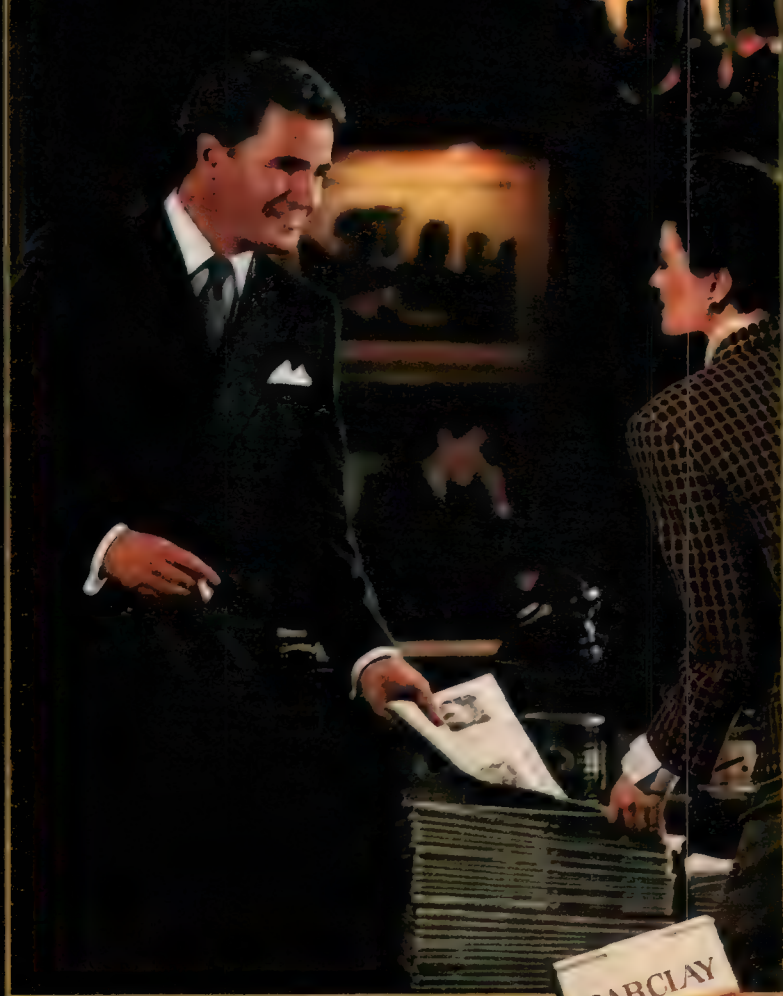

No offense, Judge Wapner, but if we must go to court, let it be this one. The judge (Harry Anderson) is a doll; the defense attorney (Shelley Hack) is a dish; the assistant DA (John Larroquette) is a put-down artist; the court clerk (Charlie Robinson) is a tough guy; the court matron (Selma Diamond) is a character. And then there's the bailiff, Bull Shannon (Richard Moll). He's 6-feet-8; he weighs 240; he's bald. The poor guy just can't win. In one episode, Bull is turned down as a "volunteer father" because he might scare the kids. Somebody suggests that he try smiling at people. So Bull tries. Suddenly a woman screams. "What happened?" someone asks. Woman: "He bared his teeth at me!" NBC. Pictured

Cody Allen (Perry King), Nick Ryder (Joe Penny) and Murray "Boz" Bozinsky (Thom Bray) are private detectives who live on a trawler called "Riptide" in a Southern California marina. They have a Corvette and a pink helicopter. Wait a minute—did you see that fox in the halter top and shorts? Whew! But back to Cody, Nick and Boz. Their boat is docked next to a charter cruise ship whose all-girl crew consists of lithe beauties with names like Tami, Bambi and Brandy. Cody and Nick are hunks; Boz is a likable nerd and a computer whiz. Hey, look at that doll in the bikini! Where were we? Oh, yeah—Riptide. Well, you probably think all this is just sheer fluff and escapism, but every so often Riptide raises a deeper question. For instance, do you realize that these guys get paid to work in this series? NBC. Pictured (l.-r.): Thom Bray, Joe Penny, Perry King.

EARLY STARTERS

Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer

Listen good. You'd better watch this show. Because if you don't, Mike Hammer (Stacy Keach) might pull out his Betsy and put a slug in your gut. This guy is tougher than Mr. T's hairdresser. Hammer's a private eye. Lives in New York. Likes the Knicks. He's got a secretary, Velda (Lindsay Bloom), who keeps on him to quit smoking. He used to like his smokes the way he likes his women—so round, so firm, so fully packed. And one woman especially—The Face. He doesn't know her name, he just sees her around. A fleeting glimpse in every episode. This year she'll get her own episode and we'll find out who she is. Maybe. You never know with Hammer. The guy's got more moves than a U-Haul. CBS. Pictured (l.-r.): Stacy Keach, Lindsay Bloom.

TV's Bloopers & Practical Jokes

A truckload of pigs is delivered to the home of actress Connie Sellecca. A comedian goes out on the streets of New York to tell a joke and see how people retell it. We see an animated feature made by a student filmmaker; it's called "Bambi Meets Godzilla." That's the sort of thing you'll find on TV's Bloopers & Practical Jokes, with hosts Ed McMahon and Dick Clark—a series determined not to let any celebrity mishap, goof or gaffe go unnoticed. Was ABC's Foul-Ups, Bleeps & Blunders inspired by this show? Just possibly. Last year the networks discovered that to err is human, to forgive is unnecessary—there's gold in them thar bloopers. NBC. Pictured (l.-r.): Ed McMahon, Dick Clark.

Diet Quiz

Which has more calories (and alcohol):

1. ☐ 5 oz. white wine?
2. ☐ 5 oz. Bacardi® rum & diet Coke®?
(1 oz. Bacardi, 4 oz. diet Coke)

According to U.S. Dept. of Agriculture data, a 5-oz. serving of white wine contains 121 calories. It has an alcohol content of about 12.5%.

Based on data from the same source, a drink made of 1 oz. 80-proof Bacardi rum and 4 oz. diet Coke has only 66 calories. And its alcohol content is just 8%. So if you chose Bacardi and diet Coke, you're a winner.

BACARDI® rum.

Partners in Crime

Raymond Dashiell Caulfield, a private detective, has been murdered—and has left an unusual will. He's bequeathed his San Francisco agency and his Victorian mansion to his two ex-wives, Carole Stanwyck (Lynda Carter) and Sydney Kovak (Loni Anderson). Carole is a free-lance photographer. Successful? Let's just say she does a lot of weddings and bar mitzvahs. Sydney, who plays bass fiddle, is an aspiring concert musician. Successful? You guessed it: weddings and bar mitzvahs. These women have a lot in common. Now they also have a detective agency—and that Victorian house. It needs a little work: the lights keep blowing, the steps give way, the windows stick and the doorknobs fall off. The first thing Carole and Sydney have to do is solve Ray's murder: that's a job for these two partners in crime. Fixing up the house—that's a job for Better Homes and Gardens. NBC. Finder of
Loves

Do you have a lost love—a what-if, whatever-happened-to, once-upon-a-time sweetheart? Come on, admit it: sure you do. And have you ever wondered what it would be like to renew that magical romance? Probably not more than two or three times a day. And you thought no one knew about your secret fantasy, eh? Well, Aaron Spelling knows. The man whose companies have developed such blockbuster series as The Love Boat, Fantasy Island, Dynasty, Hart to Hart and Hotel knows all about your favorite daydreams. So, meet handsome Cary Maxwell (Tony Franciosa), Finder of Lost Loves. With a gorgeous assistant, Daisy (Deborah Adair), and a small but devoted staff (Anne Jeffreys, Richard Kantor), Cary devotes himself to tracing and locating loved ones and reuniting old flames. The search may be happy, sad, poignant, thrilling, even dangerous. But somehow, dear viewer, the ending will always be satisfying. Because, for millions of fans, there's only one way to spell relief—by Spelling, of course. ABC. Pictured (l.-r.): Deborah Adair, Tony Franciosa.

Cover Up

Psst! Over here. In the shadows. They wouldn't give us the pilot for this one. But we have our sources. Cover Up, says our informant, is about two globe-trotting private investigators named Mac Harper (Jon-Erik Hexum) and Danielle Reynolds (Jennifer O'Neill). "Mac," our source whispered, "used to be in the Special Forces. Dani is the beautiful widow of a murdered intelligence officer." Nice work, we said admiringly; what else do you know? "Well," said Deep Larynx, slipping back into the shadows, "he poses as a male model and she works as a fashion photographer. Neat, eh? They jet around the world, helping out Americans in trouble." Excellent, we said, handing him a fat white envelope marked "Mole." Anything else? "Yes," he murmured. "One more thing. Richard Anderson also stars as Henry Towler, a high Government official." Then he was gone. But we had our story. "Cover Up"—hah! CBS. Pictured (l.-r.): Jon-Erik Hexum, Jennifer O'Neill.

Remember The Fugitive? David Janssen, as the unjustly accused Dr. Richard Kimble, was always on the run. Hot Pursuit is The Fugitive with a twist. Kate Wyler (Kerrie Keane) is a beautiful automotive engineer who's been framed for murder, sentenced to life imprisonment and rescued from custody by her husband, Jim (Eric Pierpoint). They are wanted not only by the law, but by Estelle Modrian (Dina Merrill), the scheming widow who engineered the frame—and has sent her own assassins after Kate and Jim. Thus begins a cross-country chase in which Kate and Jim will have to stay one step ahead of the real killers, while they themselves are in pursuit of the woman who was hired to frame Kate. It's a versatile format that allows for adventures in cities across the land. And while there's no predicting the chances for any new series, there's also no denying that The Fugitive ran for a long time, in more ways than one. NBC. Pictured (l.-r.): Dina Merrill, Eric Pierpoint, Kerrie Keane.

Hot Pursuit

Punky Brewster

Henry Warnimont (George Gaynes) is a crusty old coot who manages an apartment building in Chicago. One day a tenant, Mrs. Johnson (Susie Garrett), hears noises coming from a vacant apartment. Yoicks! Is it a tramp, an escaped convict, a sex maniac? Not exactly—it's a Punky Brewster (Soleil Moon Frye), a 7-year-old mopplet with worn jeans, pigtails and a smudged face. She has been abandoned. Now, Henry may be crusty and fusty, but he is not entirely without social graces. He offers Punky some juice: "I got green juice and I got brown juice." Punky: "What's the difference?" Henry: "Two weeks." But what's Henry going to do now? Punky can't just live with him, can she? Of course not. He has to turn her over to the juvenile authorities, doesn't he? Of course he does. Surely Henry won't get emotionally involved with this adorable, feisty little kid, will he? Of course he won't. NBC. Pictured (l.-r.): Soleil Moon Frye, George Gaynes.

Murder, She Wrote

The morning after a party, a man is found floating in the swimming pool—murdered. This looks like a case for Sherlock Holmes. But it's Sherlock Holmes who's been murdered! This was a costume party at the country home of a publisher, and guests were invited to come as their favorite fictional characters. So—whodunit? Was it The Count of Monte Cristo? Humpty Dumpty? Ebenezer Scrooge? Did the butler do it? We'll tell you who didn't do it: Cinderella's Fairy Godmother. That costume was worn by Jessica Fletcher (Angela Lansbury), a jauntily tweedy woman from Maine. Jessica is a mystery writer who keeps finding herself involved in intriguing crimes. In solving them, she'll often be helped by a chain of relatives across the country. She'll also have help from (among others) Richard Levinson and William Link, the creators of Columbo, who are known for their deft, complex tales in the grand tradition of mystery. The butler hardly ever does it. But you never know about the maid. . . . CBS. Pictured: Angela Lansbury.

Street Hawk

Remember CHiPs? It's amazing how things go in cycles—especially on this new series. Meet Street Hawk, about a cop who secretly works for the Feds, chasing crooks on a $3-million computerized motorcycle. Wow, what a bike! It can stop on a dime, hyper-thrust to 300 mph, shoot 30 meters straight up in the air—this fancy scooter can even do back flips! But Norman Tuttle (Joe Regalbuto), Street Hawk's engineer, doesn't think Jesse Mach (Rex Smith) is the right person to ride it. He's seen Jesse in action as a motorcycle cop. "He's reckless, irresponsible and shows very little regard for his equipment." And that, says Tuttle's boss, is "exactly what we're looking for—a cop with a test-pilot mentality." So, will Street Hawk be the right vehicle for Jesse Mach—and Rex Smith? Wheel wait and see. ABC. Pictured: Rex Smith and Street Hawk.

Welcome to the fun-filled emergency room of the Clark Street Hospital in Chicago. Dr. Howard Sheinfeld (Elliott Gould), an ear-nose-and-throat specialist, is moonlighting here so he can keep up with alimony payments to his first wife, not to mention separation payments to his second wife. Maria (Shuko Akune), the receptionist, is ordering pizza, and Fred the cop (Bruce A. Young) is making a date with Maria. Jerry the drunk is sleeping it off in Bed 1. Head nurse Thor (Conchata Ferrell) is telling Dr. Sheridan (Marcia Strassman in the pilot, Mary McDonnell in the series) why Dr. Sheinfeld is chronically exhausted. Nurse Julie (Lynne Moody) is being typically industrious and the float nurse from pediatrics (Corinne Bohrer) is being typically confused. Meanwhile, Dr. Sheinfeld is on the phone with his second wife, Phyllis, from whom he's getting divorced. She's already got the car, the house and the Rodney Dangerfield records. Sheinfeld insists on keeping the dog, Godiva. Nurse Thor can't believe he wants the dog. "I thought you hated it." Sheinfeld: "I do. But Phyllis loves it. And the one thing that's more important to me than love and hate . . . is spite." Three's a Crowd

Jack: "I'll start breakfast right away." Vicky: "You know what I'd like?" Jack: "Yeah. But let's have breakfast first." When you hear lines like those, you know what time it is—time for Three's Company, the farce in which a single guy shares an apartment with two single women. But, in fact, that time has come and gone. After eight seasons, Chrissy and Janet (not to mention Cindy and Terri) have moved on, and it's a whole new scene for Jack Tripper (John Ritter). He not only has his own restaurant now but has found his true love, Vicky Bradford (Mary Cadorette). And it now turns out that Jack, that past master of the double-entendre, is an old-fashioned guy at heart: he wants to get married. Vicky doesn't; her parents were divorced and she didn't have the greatest childhood. Result: they've been living together for a month. That's why Vicky is around for breakfast. Vicky's overbearing father (Robert Mandan) happens to be Jack's landlord, with a 10-per-cent share of the restaurant's profits—if there are any. Unlike his daughter, Bradford is not crazy about Jack, but he'll be around a lot. Now you know why, suddenly, Three's a Crowd. ABC. Pictured (l.-r.): Mary Cadorette, John Ritter, Robert Mandan.

A LOT OF CAPTAINS OF INDUSTRY STARTED OUT AS SECOND LIEUTENANTS.

Starting out as Army officers helped these top executives get the experience they needed to succeed in business.

Right out of college, they were given the kind of responsibility most people in civilian life work years for. And instead of delaying their career plans, the time they spent as officers actually put them further ahead.

How does someone become an Army officer? A great way to get the training needed is in Army ROTC.

ROTC is a college program that trains young men and women to handle the challenge of being Army officers.

Help a bright young person you know prepare for a promising future in business. Tell him to begin his future as an officer.

And that begins with Army ROTC.

Paper Dolls

If Dynasty married "Princess Daisy," its offspring would be a gorgeous, glamorous, large-cast series called Paper Dolls. Actually, this is a series version of 1982's Nielsen-grabbing TV-movie about two dazzling young beauties in the glitzy, high-powered world of modeling. The girls are Taryn Blake (Nicolette Sheridan), a top cover girl at 16 but already blasé and spoiled; and Laurie Caswell (Terry Farrell), also 16, the innocent, breathtaking newcomer. Swirling around them is the heady world of the rich and powerful, peopled by the likes of Lloyd Bridges, as a tycoon and patriarch; Morgan Fairchild, as the shrewd head of a modeling agency; Brenda Vaccaro, as Taryn's domineering mother; Jennifer Warren, as Laurie's concerned mother; Dack Rambo, as Bridges' son; and what seems like a cast of thousands, not counting the hairdressers. "The public is fascinated with the private lives of the wealthy and successful," a beautiful TV reporter says to Bridges—and this series is out to prove it. ABC. Pictured (l.-r.): Nicolette Sheridan, Lloyd Bridges, Morgan Fairchild, Terry Farrell.

Jessie

For millions of fans, Lindsay Wagner is The Bionic Woman, a lady who can outrun a horse, lift a car with her right arm and hear a pin drop in the next county. (Well, almost.) In this new series her muscle is strictly mental: she plays Dr. Jessie Hayden, a staff psychiatrist with a metropolitan police department. Jessie will match wits with psychopathic killers, work with troubled kids and find herself in the middle of tense hostage negotiations. She'll need all her training to deal with her colleague Lt. Alex Ascoli (Tony Lo Bianco), a hard-line cop with a severe case of ambivalence: he's skeptical of Jessie's methods and becomes livid when she ignores police procedure, but grudgingly admits that the doctor gets results. She'll also need that skill in handling her outspoken mother, Molly Hayden (Celeste Holm). The network bosses may want 50 minutes of her time, too: they had some insecurities about the original pilot, which located the action in Tucson, Ariz. As a result, it was refilmed and Jessie now takes place in an unnamed "large California city." Whoa—identity crisis! Sounds like Jessie Hayden is going to be one busy doctor—but we know she'll shrink to the occasion. ABC. Pictured (l.-r.): Celeste Holm, Lindsay Wagner, Tony Lo Bianco.

News Update

TV News Reacts Favorably to Pentagon Action

TV news executives are reacting favorably to the Pentagon's adoption of recommendations that efforts be made to give the media early access to future American military operations. Says ABC News vice-president George Watson: "These new guidelines reflect our feeling that news coverage of military activities is essential to a free society and that every effort should be made to avoid a repetition of what happened in Grenada."

After reporters were excluded from covering the first few days of the Grenada invasion, major news organizations protested. As a result, a panel of journalists and military officers headed by Winant Sidle, a retired general, studied the issue. Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger recently approved the panel's recommendations, which call for the Defense Department to start planning news coverage—including communications and transportation for reporters—while the military operations are being planned. They also require the press to accept guidelines to ensure security.

Former CBS News chief Richard S. Salant, who served on the panel, is pleased. "If these guidelines had been in place last fall, the Grenada ban would never have happened," he said. Watson is more cautious. "I notice that they stressed that military security would remain the paramount consideration by saying no commander is ever going to want you to take the seat of a soldier or to take up the space of a box of ammo. I would prefer it if they had accepted the report without qualification."

—Joseph Mancini

Cosell Declines Super Bowl Role

With Howard Cosell removing himself from ABC's NFL Monday Night Football, the question remains whether he will be involved in the network's first Super Bowl telecast. As things stand now, Cosell will not be in the booth. "I had lunch with Howard in July," says Jim Spence of ABC Sports. "I asked him if he wanted to do the Super Bowl. His answer was a definitive 'no'." —Bob Raissman

Call to Glory Ratings Down

After a sensational debut, the ratings for ABC's Call to Glory dropped in subsequent outings. The series drew 44 per cent of the audience on the Monday after the Olympics, but only 29 per cent a week later and an average of 28 per cent in eight major markets for its third episode. —Richard Turner

SOBER REPLY

In your Aug. 11 "Grapevine" item "Sober Warning," you quote Walter J. Murphy of the National Council on Alcoholism as saying that the season-opening episode of Cheers [Sept. 27]—in which Sam will suffer an alcoholic relapse and battle for recovery—"could fool a lot of people into thinking a relapse . . . isn't such a bad thing." That quote seriously misrepresents the show and the very positive message we believe it has. We contacted Dr. Les Zendle, an internist who consults with an alcohol and drug recovery clinic in Southern California, who feels that the fact that Sam resumes drinking and then returns to Alcoholics Anonymous for successful treatment to regain sobriety can serve as a positive behavior model for viewers with similar problems. Recovery is a constant inner struggle for the suffering individual. Showing Sam temporarily lapsing in his resolve points up the difficulty, but not the impossibility, of that struggle. We believe that's a responsible message that alcoholics—and those whose lives they affect—ought to, and will want to, hear.

Ralph Daniels
Vice-President, Broadcast Standards
National Broadcasting Company, Inc.

My faith in television has begun to be restored since programs like Hill Street Blues and Cheers have taken the bold step of creating heroes who are reformed alcoholics. Role models for men as well as women are given further dimension by showing that it is possible to be confident and successful without a drink in one's hand whenever the situation calls for it. I am highly distressed, however, by the lack of self-esteem that the writers of Cheers give Sam in the opening episode this season. They should take a lesson from Hill Street Blues, whose writers let Frank be tempted to drink, but allowed him to regain his dignity before taking that first swallow.

SACK THOSE OFFICIALS!

I think some of the so-called professionals who made the rules prohibiting sack dances and prolonged celebrations on the field ["Blitz 'em and Smash 'em—But Don't You Dare Taunt 'em," Aug. 18] are forgetting that football is a game. There are too many rules and regulations for referees to try and play judge with already. If it weren't for the antics of the players, football would be as boring and repetitious as soap opera.

Dave Cox
Arkdale, Wis.

Right after reading Melvin Durslag's article about the new football rule outlawing exhibitionism, I turned on the TV and saw an advertisement for an NFL pre-season game that showed one player spiking the ball and another giving three of his teammates a high-five!

TRASHING TV

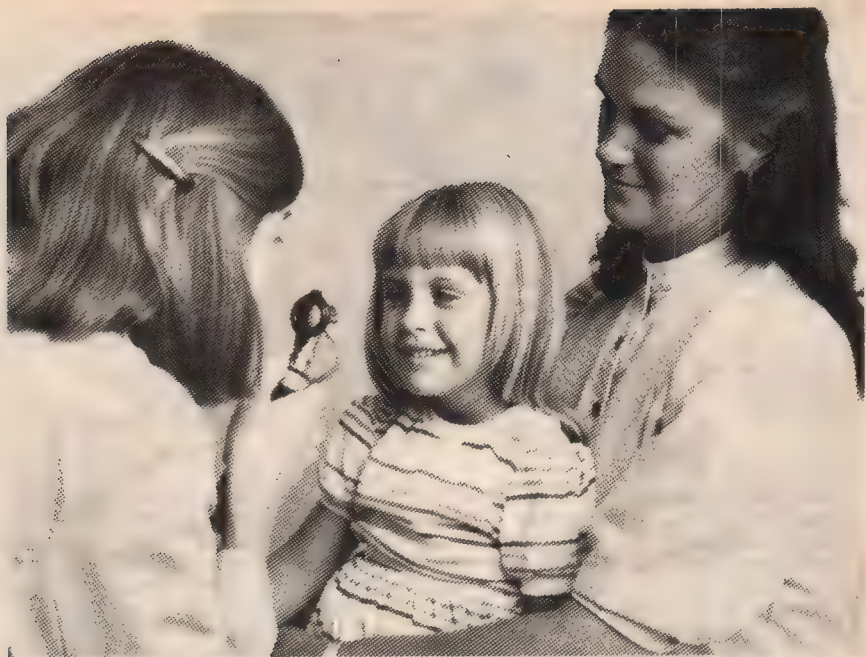

Kenneth Turan's "Prime-Time Dramas: How to Tell Good Trash from Bad" [Aug. 11] was an excellent satirical critique of so much of the so-called drama on TV. I especially agree with his comments regarding the mini-series form. Rarely have I been able to stick one out to the last hackneyed episode. I usually find myself gagging on the refuse by the end of the first!

Betty Perry
Pueblo, Colo.

Turan should remember that trash is trash. If he wants to pick the good from the bad, he'd have better pickings in my apartment house dumpsters!

The networks' fall lineup, previewed elsewhere in this issue, makes its big splash next week, but ABC is jumping in ahead of its competitors with two new prime-time series, Glitter and Hawaiian Heat. The former, with David Birney and Morgan Brittany in major roles, is about a celebrity gossip magazine. The latter is about two Chicago cops (Robert Ginty and Jeff McCracken) who decide that they'd have a lot more fun policing Hawaii.

The aggressive alphabet network also steals a march on CBS by being the first to telecast College Football this season. Saturday's game is between Alabama and Boston College. CBS does, however, have at least one important sports highlight this weekend, the U.S. Open Tennis finals.

NBC, meanwhile, has its mind on more serious matters. The network's news division will be focusing, in all of its programs this week, on Soviet-American relations. Under the general title "The New Cold War," the subject will be explored in newscasts, on the Today show and in Sunday's Meet the Press. This unusual week-long series of reports will begin with a one-hour NBC Reports special, "The Real Star Wars: Defense in Space," anchored by Marvin Kalb.

Barbara Walters has been at it for seven years now—asking famous people how beautiful they think they are, whether they honestly loved their dad-dies, how they got through their nose jobs, bereavements, IRS audits. But don't knock her (here speaks one who knocked). The woman is a virtuosa in the art of conversation. The proof is laid out like a testimonial scroll in "A Barbara Walters Special Celebration," a collage of more than 30 touching and amusing moments from her many specials. This really is the best of Barb. Which also makes it the best of Joan Rivers, Bing Crosby, Burt Reynolds, Eddie Murphy, Joan Collins and a lot of other people who have found comfort in the Walters confessional.

There is one good reason to watch The Secret World of the Very Young: a 90-second appearance by the wonderful Ruth Gordon. The veteran actress plays an elderly occupant of a park bench who strikes up a conversation with a 6-year-old child. Apart from Gordon, the program is a bizarre mixture of "expert talk" by pediatricians and psychologists, saccharine songs about childhood, labored educational sketches, and delightful quotes from kids on such subjects as divorce and human conception. John Ritter is employed to hold it all together. He tries.

PBS has all the best tunes this week. First, there's "Turandot" (From Vero-

A Lady Without Passport

For what may—or may not—be the start of the new television season, the quality comes from repeats.

The newcomers are two made-for-television movies right off the genre's assembly line. In the strive-and-succeed category there's Special People: Based on a True Story, written by Corey Blechman and directed by Marc Daniels. Brooke Adams portrays Diane Dupuy, who trained mentally handicapped students to become the Famous People Players, a 13-member Canadian puppeteering troupe. Loud-mouthed and naive (as her assistant keeps telling her), she badgers and counsels them into succeeding. Adams is fine; seven of the players play themselves well and it's all completely predictable.

At least Threesome, based by Lawrence B. Marcus on "Salt," a Herbert Gold novel, and directed by Lou Antonio, gives us a fresh taste of rottenness by way of Stephen Collins, who portrays a totally rotten charmer. When his "best friend," Joel Higgins, moves to New York, Collins gets him everything from a job and apartment to girls, including Deborah Raffin, but when Higgins and Raffin fall in love, guess who gets jealous and turns vile. All ends in TV-movie fashion, but the New York locations, good performances and depiction of nastiness provide zest.

Top of the repeats is the one theatrical, 1980's Coal Miner's Daughter, with Sissy Spacek's Oscar-winning portrait of country singer Loretta Lynn. Take special note, too, of Tommy Lee Jones as her husband-manager; Levon Helm as her father; and Beverly D'Angelo as the late Patsy Cline.

Four TV-movies are on their second runs and two are worth the watching. Patty Duke Astin, Ricky Schroder and James Farentino are irresistible in 1982's Something So Right, as a divorcee, her spoiled son and the klutzy Big Brother who comes into their lives. And 1983's Summer Girl refreshes the old villainous-vamp tale with Kim Darby and Barry Bostwick a happy couple whose life is upset by Diane Franklin, a mother's helper with more than helping on her mind. The skipables are 1982's Having It All, a clunking would-be romantic comedy with Dyan Cannon learning that bigamy doesn't pay, and 1983's High School U.S.A., a kindergarten-level "comedy" with past and present sitcom players as the brainless faculty and students.

ON CABLE

An oldie is top choice among the cable premieres, with 1950's A Lady Without Passport offering both a pulp-fiction melodrama about smuggling aliens from Cuba to Florida—and gloriously gorgeous Hedy Lamarr in the title role. With John Hodiak as an undercover agent, it's dated but delicious.

na), Puccini's opera about the blood-thirsty Chinese princess who poses her suitors impossible riddles as an excuse for chopping off their heads. The title role is sung by Ghenia Dimitrova, a Bulgarian soprano with a shining reputation among European opera lovers. She demonstrates immense power and control in this production; however, her vocal quality conveys a little too accurately the heartlessness of her character.

Then there's "Bach to Bach" (Live from Lincoln Center), a concert by the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center and the Academy of Ancient Music Chamber Ensemble from London. The two groups will play a variety of works by Johann Sebastian Bach, the Americans using modern instruments, the visitors playing instruments of the kind Bach composed for in the 18th century.

Finally, The Arranger Sessions with Billy Taylor. Taylor, jazz pianist extraordinaire, gets together with a full orchestra to play eclectic arrangements of his and other composers' music. He should have had the whole hour to himself. All those sweeping strings and big-band horns merely break the spell of his magical keyboard.

ON CABLE

"Cocaine don't care who you are," says a former addict in the HBO documentary The Nightmare of Cocaine. "It's an equal-opportunity drug." An opportunity, that is, to be charmed, then seduced, then bankrupted, then enslaved, then destroyed by this pernicious white powder. Producer Peter Greenberg's sober study of cocaine and its victims should give pause to the hundreds of thousands teetering on the brink of their first (or second) snort.

Speaking of firsts, Friday sees the inaugural MTV Video Music Awards. Bette Midler and Dan Aykroyd are hosts. Rod Stewart and David Bowie, among others, will entertain.

In some areas broadcast programs may not be seen on the days indicated. For times and channels of cable shows, see program listings.

Jimmy Connors

The final weekend of action, telecast live from Flushing Meadow, N.Y.

Saturday: The men's semifinals and the women's final. Is there any reason to believe that defending women's champion Martina Navratilova won't repeat? Her victory in the French Open in June cemented a Grand Slam that began with her 1983 Wimbledon win (she then went on to capture last year's U.S. and Australian Opens). What's more, Navratilova began her bid for a second Slam in July by winning her fifth Wimbledon title. Her dominance has been so complete, in fact, that at press time she had lost only one minor match all year (to Hana Mandlikova in January).

Sunday: The men's final. Here the competition is open—if not wide open. It is true that John McEnroe has dominated the men's game in '84 (he has won 55 of 56 matches), but unlike Navratilova he can be beaten in a big match—and was, by Ivan Lendl, in the French Open. (That was the first Grand Slam tournament win for Lendl, who had become notorious for disappearing in big events.) Then there's Jimmy Connors, who has won this event five times, including victories over Lendl in '82 and '83.

NBC REPORTS

10 PM (2) (3) (8)

THE REAL 'STAR WARS'— DEFENSE IN SPACE

On March 23, 1983, President Reagan announced plans for the development of a space-based defense system that would, if successful, "intercept and destroy strategic [nuclear] missiles before they reached our own soil or that of our allies."

Launching a week-long series on U.S.-USSR relations (to be seen on early morning and evening NBC newscasts, "Today," and "Meet the Press"), Marvin Kalb assesses the so-called "Star Wars" strategy and the controversy it has sparked over whether the system can deter—or whether it might provoke—a nuclear confrontation.

The report (still being edited at press time) features a debate between Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who supports the strategy, and former Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, who opposes the plan. Other segments, according to executive producer Anthony Potter, include visits to research labs in New Mexico and California to examine advances in laser technology. There is also an animated piece detailing the system's major components, including an orbiting laser battle station. (60 min.)

BARBARA WALTERS (CC)

8 PM 7 9 13

HIGHLIGHTS FROM PAST INTERVIEWS

Barbara Walters opens her video scrapbook of highlights from past celebrity interviews.

First up: a potpourri of badinage and irreverence from various comedians, including Dudley Moore, Steve Martin and Joan Rivers. In addition: Eddie Murphy and Johnny Carson recall reactions to their impressions of, respectively, Mr. Rogers and President Reagan.

Turning serious, Walters elicits poignant reflections of parent-child relationships from such stars as Bing Crosby, Burt Reynolds, Richard Pryor, James Stewart and Goldie Hawn.

Next, Barbara receives a range of seriocomic replies—from the likes of Bette Midler, Muhammad Ali, Joan Collins and John Wayne—to what she calls one of her favorite questions: how the "beautiful people" rate their own looks.

And as a finale, Walters shows how "I've gotten to try my hand at a little entertaining over the years" as she sings with Dolly Parton and does a softshoe with George Burns. (60 min.)

LIFE-STYLE LIFE EXTENSION

Buckle Up! Exercise Regularly! Stop Smoking! That's the message clearly conveyed in this report on the three leading causes of death in America: auto accidents, heart disease and cancer.

Graphic footage illustrates what experts interviewed here maintain: seat belts save lives. The report looks at legislation mandating the use of seat belts; developments in passive-restraint systems; and America's mobilization against drunken drivers.

Research and treatment for heart disease and cancer are also explored. At Philadelphia's Wistar Institute, cancer patients are being treated with antibodies produced in laboratory mice injected with live cancer cells. And cameras infiltrate an artery to film two operations for clogged blood vessels: balloon and laser angioplasty. Artificial hearts and clot-dissolving drugs are also examined. Tony Randall is the host. (60 min.)

SPECIAL PEOPLE: BASED ON A TRUE STORY

Brooke Adams as Diane Dupuy (right), directing the Liberace puppet show

An inspiring success story about some unlikely troupers and the dynamic woman who brought them together.

The troupe is Toronto's Famous People Players, and it's made up mostly of mentally handicapped young adults. But as this fact-based 1984 TV-movie opens, the Players are just a gleam in the eye of Diane Dupuy (Brooke Adams), who makes up for what she lacks in social-work experience with a single-minded drive to instill in her charges a sense of discipline, confidence and purpose. As she tells them: "We're going to show everyone that you can contribute many wonderful things."

Diane trains them in an unusual bit of stagecraft: dressed in black and moving to music, they re-create a Liberace concert by manipulating puppets and props. But as she conducts her rigorous rehearsals, strains develop that test the mettle of all.

Liberace portrays himself, as do seven members of the Players. Annie: Susan Roman. Robin: Lesleh Donaldson. Doug: Ron James. Julie: Isabelle Mejias. Bernard: Nicholas Kibbertus. (2 hrs.)

SECRET WORLD OF
THE VERY YOUNG
8 PM 4 5 10

Emmanuel Lewis

THROUGH THE EYES OF A CHILD

The preschool years are a magical time for children—a time of discovery, when kids are impressionable and open to new experiences, and when they begin developing basic concepts about who they are and what their world is like.

To help parents comprehend their preschoolers' psyches, host John Ritter and his celebrity guests—among them, actress Nancy Morgan (Mrs. Ritter), Mr. T, Sally Struthers, Emmanuel Lewis, Shelley Duvall, Annette O'Toole and Joan Lunden—explore the special concerns of youngsters. Included: a Smothers Brothers sketch on sibling rivalry; a sampling of kids' responses to the question "where do babies come from?"; an animated feature based on Maurice Sendak's "Where the Wild Things Are"; a skit about growing old, with Ruth Gordon; and a segment on handicaps, with comedienne Geri Jewell.

Comments by psychologists, psychiatrists and pediatricians—and by preschoolers themselves—punctuate the report. (60 min.)

Charles in Charge

Charles (Scott Baio), 19, is a college student. In return for room and board, he's become a live-in helper for Jill and Stan Pembroke (Julie Cobb, James Widdoes). He is in charge of their three children: Jason, 10 (Michael Pearlman); Douglas, 12 (Jonathan Ward); and Lila, 14 (April Lerman). The kids are perfectly normal: Jason is bright and sunny and likes sports; Douglas wears ghoulish rubber face masks and describes hamburger as "the charred remains of a slaughtered animal carcass"; Lila is obsessed with (a) boys, (b) popularity and (c) being trendy. Charles' task is to balance his responsibility for the kids with his studies, his friendship with Buddy Lembeck (Willie Aames) and his own surging hormones, which at the moment are surging toward Gwendolyn Pierce, the most excellent coed ever constructed. The kids will watch Charles' struggle with vast amusement. As Mrs. Pembroke says, "The children know everything, Charles—we have cable TV." CBS. Pictured (clockwise from top left): James Widdoes, Scott Baio, Willie Aames, April Lerman, Jonathan Ward, Michael Pearlman, Julie Cobb.

Highway to Heaven

Michael Landon is an angel. Well, we don't know what he's really like, but in this series he's an angel. As Jonathan Smith, his assignment on earth is to help people and to teach them to be kind to one another. That's a pretty tall order in itself, but Jonathan seems to have yet another mission, and that is to repeat every platitude known to man. He's good at both of these herculean tasks. As Jonathan says, never underestimate the power of love. In just one of his missions, Jonathan brightens the lives of some senior citizens, restores a cynical ex-cop's faith in his fellow man and helps a painfully shy young woman come out of her shell. The ex-cop (Victor French) will become Jonathan's sidekick. We hope those platitudes don't get in the way, though: they tend to go in one ear and out like a light. Still, man does not live by bread alone, and maybe this series is just what the doctor ordered. NBC. Pictured (l.-r.): Michael Landon, Victor French.

"For a change, I'd like to have a girl that I can't have." That's an apt line for Gino Minelli; he's played by John Stamos, the teen idol formerly of General Hospital. In this half-hour comedy, Stamos is one of five young Philadelphians who are trying to make it as a rock band. Gino is the lead singer, lead guitarist and a human magnet for groupies; Martha (Jami Gertz) is a singer; Phil (Cain Devore) plays guitar; Weiner (Albert Macklin) is keyboardist and resident jester; and Lisa (Valerie Stevenson) is a singer, songwriter and pianist. The kids work at mundane jobs by day; at night they play at a neighborhood club owned by Gino's Uncle Frank (Ron Karabatsos). So you can expect to see a lot of music videos, interspersed with comic exchanges—as when Gino, the ladies' man, first spots Lisa in a record store. For once, he's smitten. He sidles up to her with what he thinks is a cool line: "If you could be any song in the world right now, what would it be?" Lisa: "'Beat It'." CBS. Pictured (l.-r.): Cain Devore, Valerie Stevenson, John Stamos, Jami Gertz and Albert Macklin.

How to describe Matthew Burton (Jason Bateman)? Think of Dennis the Menace; think of Machiavelli; better yet, think of J.R. Ewing as a 14-year-old boy. Frightening, isn't it? But that's Matthew; this kid is so slick he makes Teflon look like Velcro. Matthew lives in a California apartment with his foxy mother, Eileen (Caren Kaye), and his sister Julie (Tricia Cast), 16. Matt thinks his mother should marry lumber dealer Mort Stumpelrutt ("A woman is just a woman, but you can build things with wood"). Mom, however, is rather taken with Norman Lamb (David Garrison), a struggling writer who's just moved into the apartment across the hall. Matthew will try to outfox Norman, but he just may have met his match. How to describe Norman? Think of Matthew Burton—about 20 years later. NBC.

People Do the Craziest Things

In the powder room of a Florida nightclub, the producers of this series placed a male statue with a movable fig leaf—and a sign warning women not to move it. A woman comes in and glances at the statue. She looks away. She powders her nose. She looks again. Finally, she can't resist. She raises the fig leaf—and a bell goes off in the nightclub, where everyone else is in on the gag. In another segment, people in a parking lot are confronted with one of those wooden arms that have to be raised before they can exit. Normally you'd put in a token or ID card. This bar, of course, has been rigged so that drivers can't get out without going through all kinds of nonsense. What would you like to do in that situation? That's what we'd like to do, too—and somebody finally does it. Bert Convy agreed to act as host of this series. People do the craziest things. ABC. Pictured: Bert Convy.

The Cosby Show

"Son," says Dr. Cliff Huxtable (Bill Cosby), "your mother asked me to come up here and kill you." With lines like that, The Cosby Show is sure to attract an audience of attentive parents. The son who needs "killing" in this half-hour comedy is Theodore, 14 (Malcolm-Jamal Warner), who has just brought home a report card sporting four D's. We will also meet Denise, 16 (Lisa Bonet); Vanessa, 9 (Tempest Bledsoe); and Rudy, 5 (Keshia Knight Pulliam). Cosby plays a New York obstetrician; his wife, Clair (Phylicia Ayers-Allen), is a lawyer. The premise of this series, says an NBC release, is that "it is almost impossible to raise kids gracefully in this modern world." But the Huxtables will keep trying. There is the matter of manners, for instance. One night Vanessa and Rudy knock on Mom and Dad's bedroom door. Dad: "Who is it?" No answer; the kids just walk in. Dad: "No. No. Go back outside and knock on the door. When I say, 'Who is it?' you say who it is." The kids go back out. Knock, knock. Dad: "Who is it?" Kids: "Who it is!" NBC. Pictured (clockwise from far left): Lisa Bonet, Tempest Bledsoe, Bill Cosby, Phylicia Ayers-Allen, Malcolm-Jamal Warner, Keshia Knight Pulliam.

Who's the Boss?

Real men do too eat quiche. They also do windows and shoot hoops. That's the message of this half-hour comedy, in which a beautiful advertising executive with a 7-year-old son hires a live-in housekeeper with a 10-year-old daughter. The executive is divorced Angela Bower (Judith Light); her housekeeper is hunky Tony Micelli (Tony Danza). Tony needs the job and his daughter, Samantha (Alyssa Milano), a tomboyish cutie, needs a decent place to grow up. Angela is a terrific executive, but not so hot at dealing with son Jonathan (Danny Pintauro), who lives on junk food. Tony can deal with Jonathan: he throws out the Sugar Crunchies and gives the kid scrambled eggs. Jonathan: "Yuck! Isn't there anything else?" Tony: "Yeah—hunger." Angela isn't so sure she should have a male housekeeper, but her mother (Katherine Helmond) sets her straight: "Don't be sexist. A man can do meaningless, unproductive work as well as a woman." ABC. Pictured (l.-r.): Judith Light, Danny Pintauro, Tony Danza, Alyssa Milano, Katherine Helmond.

Glitter

Let's sit in on a staff meeting of Glitter, "the hottest magazine on the newsstands." The editor is looking at a photo. "How long ago was this picture of Phyllis Diller taken?" A photographer answers, "Last week—and it's Boy George." Now for the hot stories. A notorious madam is dying at a hospital, two estranged movie stars are getting back together for a film, and a senator has a secret. Glitter's reporters (including David Birney, Morgan Brittany and Christopher Mayer) will dig into these stories. And during this morning meeting, a boy delivers pizza (pepperoni and onions) to a reporter. Golly, is that how a magazine works? Not exactly. Does it matter? Probably not. But just for the record: any good editor knows the difference between Phyllis Diller and Boy George. Phyllis is the pretty one. ABC. Pictured (l.-r.): David Birney, Morgan Brittany.

V is NBC's favorite letter of the alphabet. The network's 1983 mini-series was such a whopping hit that it came back with a six-hour sequel last May. And that did so well that V is now a series. But here's a question for you, trivia fans: what does that V stand for, anyway? By now most people know the story: V is about aliens who come to earth under friendly pretexts, looking just like humans. But underneath they're really disgusting lizards who want our water—and they want us for food! They also go around swallowing rodents, impregnating our teen-agers and brainwashing our scientists; you can see how they'd be a nuisance. The saga continues with many of the original cast, including Marc Singer and Faye Grant as the freedom fighters, and Jane Badler as the evil alien Diana. As for that V, it depends on whose side you're on. It stands for Visitors, meaning the aliens. But the good guys—and NBC—would tell you that V is for Victory. Pictured (rear, l.-r.): Faye Grant, Marc Singer; (front): Jane Badler.

Are you ready for Sheboygan jokes? Here's one: "You know why dogs from Sheboygan have flat noses? They keep chasing after parked cars." Officer Andy Senkowski (Jeff McCracken) tells that one to distract a crazed guy in a bar. Later on, Andy's partner, Mac Riley (Robert Ginty), offers this one: "You know what they call a 35-year-old guy from Sheboygan who's in the fourth grade? A prodigy." Mac and Andy are Chicago cops who hate being cops in Chicago. One day they find themselves staring at a billboard ad for Hawaii. Hot sun. Blue water. White beaches. And a beauty in a very small bikini. Next thing we know they're on a plane. Andy and Mac will manage to join the Hawaii Metro Police, where they'll chase bad guys, share a beach house with beautiful women—and, of course, tell jokes about dumb haoles (Caucasians). Hunter

You've got to like Det. Sgt. Rick Hunter (former NFL grid star Fred Dryer). He looks like Richard Widmark and talks like Clint Eastwood. Furthermore, he's an honest cop. How can you not like a guy like that? Just ask Capt. Lester Cain (Arthur Rosenberg), a martinet who doesn't like Hunter's unorthodox methods or his habit of demolishing police vehicles; he rewards Hunter by replacing the cars with today's special from Rent-a-Wreck. To avoid getting teamed with an apple-polishing twerp named Terwilliger, Hunter chooses his own partner—Det. Sgt. Dee Dee McCall (Stephanie Kramer), also known as The Brass Cupcake, who's a dead shot and who likes bubble baths. We don't know about Hunter's bathing preferences, but maybe they should both switch to cold showers. Cain's watching these two like a hawk, and they'd better stay out of hot water. NBC. Pictured (l.-r.): Stephanie Kramer, Fred Dryer.

Introducing Golden® Step Ahead.™

The workbooks that teach children how to think, not what to think.

You remember how it was. You memorized a list, took a test, and the next day, you forgot it.

Well, things are changing.

Introducing Golden Step Ahead Workbooks.

Educators now know that learning must be more than just lists kids will memorize and then forget.

So Step Ahead exercises are developed by teachers to integrate the how and why with the what.

Puzzles, pictures and games complement and enhance school lessons. Exercises show kids how to apply what they learn to what they do every day. And colorful stickers provide a reward system that will make them eager to learn — and remember — more.

These innovative methods are so involving, kids do more than just memorize. They learn. Using their heads, their hands and their imaginations.

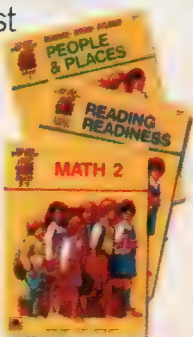

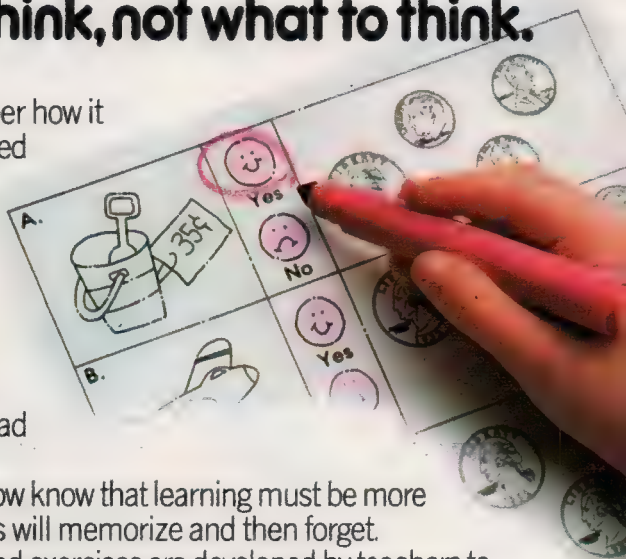

That's why we call them Step Ahead.

Miami Vice

Sonny Crockett (Don Johnson) lives in Miami, drives a hopped-up sports car and sleeps on a 40-foot sloop in a marina. He has a pet on board—a 10-foot alligator named Elvis. Known to the locals as an ocean guide, Sonny seems to live the good life. But do not be deceived: in this offbeat crime drama, things are seamier than they seem. Crockett is an undercover vice detective. His pursuit of a Colombian drug kingpin will lead Sonny to team up with Ricardo Tubbs (Philip Michael Thomas), a cop from New York who is also not quite what he seems. Nor, for that matter, is Elvis just any old alligator: he was once the official mascot of the University of Florida football Gators. And compared to the pushers, racketeers, hired killers and assorted scuzzballs we'll meet in this gritty but visually lyrical series, Elvis is a pussycat. NBC. Pictured (l.-r.): Don Johnson, Philip Michael Thomas.

This may be the winter of your discontent on PBS—if you're a Shakespeare fan: the last four of his 37 plays (presented over the past seven years) will be televised. On the other hand, you can cheer the return of Rumpole of the Bailey (in six new Mystery! episodes), embark on an eight-part odyssey through the human brain, travel more than 3000 years through Jewish history, pause for a salute to Broadway show-stoppers, get a kick out of Baryshnikov dancing to Sinatra, or get immersed in the music of Bach and Verdi or dramatizations of works by James Baldwin, Agatha Christie, Anthony Trollope and Virginia Woolf.

With riches such as these on tap—and a possible restoration of Federal funding that could top $270 million by 1989—public television is looking healthier than ever. It also has more programming than ever. This season, in addition to the traditional core schedule, which runs from 8 to 10 P.M. (ET) Sunday through Wednesday, other PBS shows are being offered on Thursday and Friday to local stations that choose to carry them.

SUNDAY

Adam Smith's Money World (6:30

P.M.), a financial-advice series, will tap the expertise of noted economists and investors.

The Living Planet: A Portrait of the Earth (7 P.M.) begins Feb. 3 as a 12-part sequel to author-host David Attenborough's Life on Earth. Here, Attenborough unearths the complex interactions of plants, animals and humans in such diverse habitats as oceans, islands, deserts and cities—a sort of Environment of the Week Club.

Nature (8 P.M.) starts its third season of armchair explorations off with a bang on Sept. 30 by recalling "Krakatoa: The Day That Shook the World." It's the first of 18 new nature films that range from the politically volatile Persian Gulf to Kenya's evocative Mount Kilimanjaro to "Yellowstone in Winter," a tour of the national park.

Masterpiece Theatre (9 P.M.) launches its 14th season on Oct. 28 with a seven-week visit to Barchester, England, the fictitious Victorian city that was the setting for six Anthony Trollope novels, two of which have been combined in Barchester Chronicles. Donald Pleasence, Susan Hampshire and Janet Maw are among the stars. Then it's on to India for The Jewel in the Crown (Dec. 16), a sumptuously filmed 14-part series based on "The Raj Quartet," four novels by Paul Scott that trace the five years preceding India's independence from British rule. The huge cast includes Tim Pigott-Smith, Judy Parfitt, Geraldine James and Dame Peggy Ashcroft. Next spring, All for Love offers an anthology of love stories about ordinary people; and C.P. Snow's Strangers and Brothers spans four decades of English life.

MONDAY

In case you wondered whatever happened to the Family Viewing Hour, Wonderworks (8 P.M.) is designed to give children (ages 7 to 12) and their parents something to watch together. The 26-week series opens Oct. 1 with "Booker," about the education of the young Booker T. Washington, with Shavar Ross (Diff'rent Strokes), LeVar Burton and Shelley Duvall in key roles. In comic contrast, there's "The Hoboken Chicken Emergency" (Nov. 19), with TV veterans Gabe Kaplan and Dick Van Patten up against a 266-pound fowl named Henrietta.

Heritage: Civilization and the Jews (9 P.M.) traces Judaism's history, culture and influence on Western civilization—from Biblical times through the Middle Ages, the Jewish experience in America, the Holocaust and the postwar birth of Israel. Veteran Israeli diplomat Abba Eban is the host for the nine-part series, which gets underway Oct. 1.

American Playhouse (9 P.M.) opens its fourth season Nov. 26 with the television premiere of "Testament," an acclaimed 1983 film about one family in a small northern California town during the days after a nuclear war. In fact, "Testament" (for which Jane Alexander received an Oscar nomination) was originally made for American Playhouse. So was the theatrically released "El Norte," a portrait of illegal aliens, which concludes the season. In between are such notable productions as "A Matter of Principle" (Dec. 3) with Alan Arkin as an Appalachian scrooge; "Solomon Northup's Odyssey" (Dec. 10), based on the memoirs of a Northern black man abducted into slavery in the mid-1800s; James Baldwin's novel "Go Tell It on the Mountain"; "Myra," based on an F. Scott Fitzgerald story; Katherine Anne Porter's "Noon Wine"; and humorist Jean Shepherd's latest saga, "The Star-Crossed Romance of Josephine Cosnowski." Capping the season: Three Sovereigns for Sarah, a three-part miniseries about the Salem witchcraft trials, starring Vanessa Redgrave.

TUESDAY

Nova (8 P.M.) begins its 12th season by testing viewers'—and celebrity panelists'—knowledge in "The National Science Test" (Oct. 16), a quiz illustrated with clips from previous seasons' shows. Other programs include a look at the truth behind the toothsome legends surrounding great white sharks, and the challenge posed to Darwin by Dr. Stephen Jay Gould's revolutionary theory of evolution.

The Constitution: That Delicate Balance (10 P.M., beginning Sept. 18) tackles such delicate issues as the President's powers to wage war, an individual's right to privacy, freedom of the press vs. national security, and the debate over prayer in public schools. →

WEDNESDAY

The Brain (8 P.M.) promises to be a thought-provoking eight-part series (premiering Oct. 10) that will draw upon medical case studies to unlock the mysteries of memory, perception, emotions, sexuality, learning, mental illness and neurological disorders.

Generally, Wednesday remains a night for specials. Live from Lincoln Center (8 P.M.) raises the curtain on its ninth season on Sept. 12 with an all-Bach chamber-music recital. The virtuosity of violinist and violist Pinchas Zukerman will be featured in a New York Philharmonic concert (Oct. 3) conducted by Zubin Mehta (who will return with the orchestra for a New Year's Eve concert). But the season's crescendo comes Friday, Oct. 26, with a two-hour taped gala celebrating Lincoln Center's 25th anniversary.

Live from the Met (8 P.M.) once again offers a mixture of live and taped productions; three of them Verdi operas: "La Forza del Destino" (the taped season opener on Oct. 31) and "Aida" (live; Jan. 3), both with Leontyne Price, and "Simon Boccanegra" (taped; April 17), with Sherrill Milnes in the title role.

THURSDAY

On the Money (8:30 P.M.), a 13-week magazine-style series on personal finance, begins Oct. 11.

Mystery! (9 P.M.) welcomes back an old friend, that rumpled British barrister Horace Rumpole (Leo McKern), in a two-hour fifth-season opener, "Rumpole's Return" (Oct. 11), followed by six new cases. Hot on the trail are Agatha Christie's husband-and-wife sleuths Tommy and Tupence Beresford (James Warwick, Francesca Annis) in five episodes of Partners in Crime (not to be confused with the new NBC series). Later, it's Jeremy Brett's turn to play the ageless Sherlock Holmes, with David Burke assisting as Dr. Watson, in seven first-run cases.

FRIDAY

Great Performances (9 P.M.) opens its 12th season on a new night with some familiar faces, voices—and feet. For openers, Mikhail Baryshnikov performs the "Sinatra Suite," one of several lively works in a Dance in America program (Oct. 5) choreographed by Twyla Tharp; another show focuses on Alvin Ailey and other black American dance masters. Plácido Domingo performs in film versions of "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana"; while his rival, Luciano Pavarotti, stars as "Rigoletto"'s Duke of Mantua, filmed (appropriately) on location in Mantua, Italy. Also fitting is the choice of Nell Carter, Mary Martin, Robert Morse, Debbie Reynolds, Chita Rivera and other stars to belt out the tunes they made—or that made them—famous in a salute to the "Best of Broadway." Another Broadway veteran, Rosemary Harris, will star in an adaptation of Virginia Woolf's novel "To the Lighthouse," about a doomed English family on the eve of World War I.

Finally, all's well that ends well, and The Shakespeare Plays (9 P.M.) will conclude its ambitious seven-year run with "King John" (starring Leonard Rossiter and Claire Bloom), "Much Ado About Nothing," "Titus Andronicus" and "Love's Labor's Lost" (featuring Jenny Agutter and David Warner).

Documentary specials include Child Sexual Abuse: What Your Children Should Know, which originally aired on Chicago's WTTW and will be shown as a five-part series, Monday, Sept. 17, through Thursday, Sept. 20, on most PBS stations.

The Voyage of the Mimi gets underway on Monday, Sept. 10, on many PBS stations, with the first of 13 programs, each of which combines a science documentary with the fictional adventures of three teen-agers at sea.

Finally, The PBS Adult Learning Service offers a fourth year of televised courses for college credit. In addition to The Brain, Heritage: Civilization and the Jews and The Constitution: That Delicate Balance, credits can be earned for Congress: We the People, a 13-part series with Edwin Newman that explores the political structure, leadership and ethics on Capitol Hill; The Write Course, a 30-part course in developing writing skills for school and career; and The New Literacy: An Introduction to Computers.

"Missing," "Victor/Victoria," "Sophie's Choice," "Reds," "Diner" and "The World According to Garp" are among the highlights of the new network-movie season.

As announced, it's one of the smallest in years, but there will undoubtedly be a near doubling-up by season's end. Last year the three major networks put forth a total of 42 new entries; by season's end, they'd come up with 84 (13 shown as late movies rather than prime-timers); PBS, with no advance announcement, offered six premieres, and seven of the promised network features were never run.

For this season, only 27 new theatrical features are named by the commercial networks and, again, none by PBS. But we know there are more to come. Besides, these, don't forget, will be supplemented by theatrical films on cable (see page 18) and made-for-TV movies (see "Specials," page 10). But while NBC will be maintaining its Sunday and Monday movie slots, and ABC its Sunday niche, CBS is continuing only its Tuesday and Wednesday slots.

CBS, however, has come up with a diamond-studded list of 13 features for this season, with the emphasis on comedy. In that area the topper undoubtedly is Blake Edwards' 1982 Victor/Victoria, a lavish, luscious, ribald musical comedy that, by the way, is headed for Broadway with Julie Andrews repeating her title role. Andrews plays a singer stranded in Paris in the '30s who, guided by Robert Preston, develops a smash nightclub act in drag and becomes involved with James Garner, a macho American gangster. What ensues is a fine mix of farce and philosophical games about role playing. George Roy Hill's 1982 The World According to Garp, a fair enough rendering of John Irving's 1978 novel, deals with the subtle ironies and low comedy of daily living, set aglow by Robin Williams as Garp and Glenn Close as his mother.

There are more comedies at hand. For the kids in all of us, 1981's The Great Muppet Caper demonstrates the inventiveness, complexity and just plain charm of Jim Henson and his fellow perfectors of the art of puppetry, with Kermit an investigative reporter in London and Miss Piggy a high-fashion model. Carl Reiner's 1982 Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid is an ingenious contrivance that not only stars Steve Martin as an archetypal private eye of the '40s-50s, but also co-stars him with, among others, Humphrey Bogart, James Cagney and Bette Davis in their glorious primes. 1982's Fast Times at Ridgemont High is that rare high-school comedy wherein the kids are "normal," the adults neither freaks nor idiots and the perception of life in a fast-food world as funny as it is friendly. 1981's So Fine deals with not-much-maturer grown-ups in its knockabout farce with Ryan O'Neal a stodgy English professor who saves his father's garment business by making blue-jeans history. And for young-man madness, 1982's Night Shift, thanks to Michael Keaton and Henry Winkler, makes pure delight out of a couple of "decent" guys running a vice ring out of the city morgue. Down the comedy line, Richard Pryor is the saving grace of 1982's Some Kind of Hero, a bittersweet story of a returned Vietnam POW.

For drama, CBS has 1982's Missing, Costa-Gavras' stunning real-life political thriller, a heart-wrenching human drama with Jack Lemmon as an American businessman searching for his son, who has disappeared in the coup d'état in Chile, and Sissy Spacek as his daughter-in-law. It is simply a stunner. Meryl Streep earns her best-actress Oscar in 1982's Sophie's Choice, also on CBS's agenda. Her portrait of a concentration-camp → survivor is the thrilling focal point of Alan Pakula's faithful film of the William Styron novel.

CBS has three other items. 1982's Rocky III can be differentiated from its predecessors by its bringing fame to Mr. T, playing Sylvester Stallone's most vicious opponent to date. 1982's Author! Author! is a tedious tale of parenting and play-wrighting, with Al Pacino a dour chap left with his wife's five kids, one of them his. Six kids provide the even more acute cutes for 1982's Six Pack, with Kenny Rogers a race-car driver who takes on a sextet of juveniles who strip cars.

ABC, which last season announced 15 premieres and ultimately came up with 19, has 10 newcomers and one holdover on its schedule. The most prestigious is undoubtedly Warren Beatty's 1981 Reds, which he produced, directed, co-wrote and stars in with Diane Keaton. The film is basically Beatty's biography of John Reed, the American journalist and radical leader who died in Russia in 1920 at 32. The film encompasses the Russian Revolution, American radicalism in the 1915-20 period, avant-garde intellectual circles of the time and Reed's relationship with Louise Bryant, an aspiring writer-feminist. It is dazzling, action-filled and ambitious.

For spectacle on an entirely different level, 1982's Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan offers Trekkers and non-devotees alike high adventure and the sheer fun of fantasy grounded in the old, familiar, slightly over-the-hill crew. There is, of course, fantasy of quite another kind in Steven Spielberg's 1982 Poltergeist, a deluxe horror movie directed by Tobe Hooper wherein some perfectly terrible things happen to a perfectly nice family.

The small gem on the ABC list is Barry Levinson's 1982 Diner, a beautifully realized, clear-eyed but nostalgic return to the '50s, covering several days in the lives of a close-knit group of buddies whose days wind up as we suspect they always did and will—at the diner. And its opposite, of course, is 1982's The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas, a great big good-natured film version of the Broadway hit with Burt Reynolds and Dolly Parton just as crowd-pleasing as ever and with a catchy score. And somewhere in between those two is Clint Eastwood's remarkably affecting 1983 Honkytonk Man, set in the Depression era, with Eastwood, a country singer, and his young nephew making their way from Oklahoma to Nashville.

Going down the quality line, we get to 1980's The Competition, wherein Richard Dreyfuss and Amy Irving achieve some credibility as piano prodigies competing for a major prize. In Billy Wilder's 1981 Buddy, Buddy, the old magic doesn't work, even with Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon on hand. There's buddyism with John Belushi and Dan Aykroyd in 1981's Neighbors, but this comedy of the absurd loses its point. Finally, 1982's Grease 2, taking us back to Rydell High, with Michelle Pfeiffer and Maxwell Caulfield in the continuing tale of the Pink Ladies and the T-Birds, goes nowhere in song or story. This season ABC again promises to bring us 1981's Wolfen, with Albert Finney a detective coping with the supernatural in an offbeat horror story.

NBC, which last season promised 11 premieres and came up with 21, has only four newcomers and two holdovers to offer. Three premieres are strictly from comic strips. 1982's Conan the Barbarian emphasizes blood-lust and slice-and-chop-'em-up heroics by Arnold Schwarzenegger, who's all muscles. Robert Altman's 1980 Popeye has Robin Williams, complete with bulging forearms and corn-cob pipe, and Shelley Duvall, lanky and long-legged, capturing the spirit of Popeye and Olive Oyl. Australia's 1982 The Road Warrior is all pow-bam-sock-va-room with Mel Gibson a post-nuclear-war loner. The quality gem is Sidney Lumet's 1982 The Verdict, with Paul Newman superb as an alcoholic-lawyer fighting both the law and the legal system.

NBC is once again promising us 1980's Tribute, with Jack Lemmon; and 1980's The Elephant Man, with John Hurt.

In all, there may be fewer films in the offing—but the quality level is higher, with some fine watching ahead. (END)

The networks are hoping to reverse a five-year skid in sports ratings, but it doesn't look like the fall of '84 is the time they're going to do it. The Olympics are history and—when last anyone looked—no one had invented a major new sport to pique viewers' interest.

Pro Football: Following last season's ratings slump, ABC has come up with a nighttime schedule heavy on the "glamour" teams. Last season's Super Bowl XVIII antagonists—the champion Los Angeles Raiders and the Washington Redskins—will each make three appearances in a regular-season lineup that includes 16 Monday Night Football games and five prime-time specials. The jewel in ABC's pro-football coverage is Super Bowl XIX, Jan. 20, in Palo Alto, Cal. The network will also telecast the season finale, the Pro Bowl, from Honolulu Jan. 27.

Meanwhile, over at NBC and CBS, a respective 102 and 101 regular-season NFL games will be offered. Highlights include a Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 22) doubleheader featuring the Green Bay Packers vs. the Detroit Lions (CBS, 12:30 P.M. [ET]) and the Dallas Cowboys vs. the New England Patriots (NBC, 4 P.M.). The two networks will televise the American and National Conference wild-card contests Dec. 23. Then on to the playoffs Dec. 29 and 30, followed by the AFC and NFC championships Jan. 6.

ABC will track the United States Football League through its third year of existence, starting in February and culminating with July's prime-time championship game from Pontiac, Mich.

College Football: In the wake of the Supreme Court's recent decision invalidating the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 32-year-old exclusive control over college-football telecasts, ABC managed to nail down a contract with the 63-member College Football Association providing for 20 Saturday games to be carried over a 13-week period, beginning with the Sept. 8 Alabama-Boston College matchup (9 P.M.). CBS has a package of 17 games, most of them involving the Big 10 and Pacific 10 conferences. There will be additional games on local stations and regional networks. Even public television in the Eastern states is getting into the act with Ivy League contests.

As for post-season play, the deluge begins Dec. 22 with daytime coverage of the Florida Citrus Bowl on NBC and the Sun Bowl on CBS. CBS's Blue-Gray Game comes next on Dec. 25, followed by ABC's Gator Bowl Dec. 28 and CBS's Peach Bowl Dec. 31. New Year's Day, Jan. 1, is when the floodgates really open: CBS airs the Cotton Bowl; ABC televises the Sugar Bowl; and NBC shows nine consecutive hours of college football with the Fiesta Bowl, the Rose Bowl and the Orange Bowl. Then, on Jan. 5, NBC will show the Hula Bowl at 4 P.M.

Baseball: The American and National League championship series will be televised on ABC from Oct. 2 through (if necessary) Oct. 7. The winners then go to bat on NBC, when the World Series begins in prime time Oct. 9 and 10 from the NL stadium. (Unless, of course, the NL team happens to be the Chicago Cubs, who insist on playing in the only major-league stadium without lights.) Game 3 moves to the AL park for another planned prime-timer on Oct. 12. Then it's daytime baseball for games 4 and (if necessary) 5 on Oct. 13 and 14. Games 6 and 7 →

(also if necessary), on Oct. 16 and 17, return to the NL champion's habitat and prime time (again, unless the Cubs are involved).

Pro Basketball: CBS begins its 11-game, regular-season slate on Oct. 27. The mid-season All-Star game airs Feb. 10, with championship playoffs starting April 20 and the championship series scheduled to commence May 30.

College Basketball: The defending national champion, Georgetown, appears twice during an NBC regular-season slate that opens Dec. 1 with UCLA at DePaul. CBS's 23-game, regular-season coverage gets under way Nov. 24. Standout matchups include Oklahoma vs. Illinois on Dec. 1, DePaul vs. Georgetown on Dec. 15 and UCLA vs. St. John's on Dec. 22. CBS will air three weeks of NCAA tournament play beginning March 14 and ending with the Final Four March 30 and the prime-time championship game April 1 from Lexington, Ky.

Horse Racing: NBC comes out of the starting gate on Nov. 10 to introduce the seven-race, $10-million Breeders' Cup Series. ABC checks in with its yearly double of the Kentucky Derby on May 4 and the Preakness Stakes on May 18. CBS airs the Belmont Stakes June 8.

Golf: Four of the sport's biggest names—Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Tom Watson and Gary Player—return for the second year of the $360,000 "Skins Game," Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 on NBC. Then it's on to the 1985 Professional Golfers' Association tour, teeing off with the Bob Hope Desert Classic (NBC, Jan. 12-13). Other heavy-hitting men's and women's events: the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am (CBS, Feb. 2-3); the Women's Kemper Open (NBC, March 16-17); the Tournament Players Championship (CBS, March 30-31); the Masters (CBS, April 11-14); the U.S. Open (ABC, June 15-16); the U.S. Women's Open (ABC, July 13-14); the British Open (ABC, July 20-21); and the PGA Championship (ABC, Aug. 9-11).

Tennis: CBS's U.S. Open coverage climaxes this week with the men's and women's semifinals and finals, Sept. 7-9. NBC's season begins with the men-only Grand Prix Masters (formerly the Volvo Masters) on Jan. 12-13, then moves on to the French Open June 2-9, before heading to Wimbledon. Live and taped coverage of early-round action commences June 29. "Breakfast at Wimbledon" brings the women's and men's finals live to your nooks on July 6 and 7, respectively. ABC serves up "Tournament of Champions Tennis" May 11-12 live from the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N.Y. The network also will televise the first-ever International Players Tennis Championships, a $1.8-million event, on Feb. 16 and 17.

Auto Racing: CBS will telecast the Daytona 500 live on Feb. 17. ABC offers same-day, prime-time coverage of the Indianapolis 500 May 26.

Bowling: NBC will cover pro bowling for the first time this season. Its seven-week slate begins Oct. 20 (3 P.M.). ABC's Professional Bowlers Tour—rolling into its 24th season—begins Jan. 5 and ends on April 20 with the $200,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions.

Anthologies: ABC's Wide World of Sports continues with everything from Alpine skiing to gymnastics to track and field. Its coverage will include the U.S. Grand Prix Motocross Motorcycle Championship, and both the World Lumberjack and World Wrestling Championships. CBS Sports Saturday/Sunday offers a host of first-class skating events (including the European Figure Skating Championships and the World Figure Skating Championships) as well as such fare as the Tour de France bike race and sled-dog racing across Alaska. NBC's SportsWorld will televise the World Professional Figure Skating Championships, CART Indy-car auto racing and boxing. (END)

GOT PLAQUE? FIGHT BACK.

What is plaque?

Artist's rendition of bacterial plaque x 10,000 magnification.

You may not know it, but you could have plaque. Almost everybody does. Plaque is a sticky, nearly invisible germ film that forms and builds up on your teeth.

But, if you reduce plaque, you can have a cleaner, fresher mouth with less stain and odor.

also kills the germs that cause plaque buildup.

Reduce plaque buildup by up to 50%.

Clinical evidence shows that if you rinse with Listerine twice a day, in addition to regular brushing and a professional cleaning, you can reduce plaque by up to 50% over brushing alone.

And that means better oral hygiene.

Blue bar is plaque after brushing alone. Yellow bar is plaque after regular brushing and rinsing twice a day with Listerine. There's up to 50% less plaque with Listerine.

How does Listerine® fight plaque?

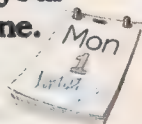

You know Listerine kills the germs that cause bad breath. Now recent tests prove that it

Rinse full strength for 30 seconds morning and night.

Make it part of your daily oral hygiene.

So, to reduce plaque, brush thoroughly—at least twice a day is recommended. Floss to remove food particles and plaque between teeth. See your dentist for cleanings and check-ups at least twice a year. And use Listerine Antiseptic regularly, twice a day, for better oral hygiene.

If you're a longtime allergy sufferer, chances are you're well aware of Teldrin.[®] Doctors prescribed it for years for the sneezing, running nose and itchy, watery eyes that allergies bring. CHANGES Tuning in on several returning shows this fall, you'll see How They Spent Their Summer Vacation: in Europe and, as far as we know, no one was complaining about it. CBS's Scarecrow and Mrs. King filmed five episodes in Europe. In Simon & Simon's opener, A.J. and Rick are in Paris; when they get back to the U.S., the brothers have a spiffy new office. NBC's Remington Steele roams from Dublin to Malta in early episodes, and ABC's The Love Boat cruises Scandinavia with a new cruise director (Patricia Klous instead of Lauren Tewes) and an on-board photographer, played by Ted McGinley.

On the home front, Benson is appointed lieutenant governor, while Alice falls for a magazine writer (Michael Durrell) and waits on a new diner regular (Jonathan Prince). Webster moves to a Victorian town house being renovated by a couple (Eugene Roche and Cathryn Damon) who don't always see eye-to-eye with George and Katherine. Meanwhile, on Newhart, Kirk and Cindy are gone and their café is now run by Larry, Darryl and Darryl; Stephanie gets romanced by preppy Michael Harris (Peter Scolari, the other guy in Bosom Buddies). Cheers resumes in "real" time—the summer's gone by with Diane away. Sam is back to his old ways, and a psychiatrist friend of Diane's, played by Kelsey Grammer, begins frequenting the watering hole. On Family Ties, Alex is in college and his mother has a baby (though not twins, which Meredith Baxter Birney is expecting in real life). Alfonso Ribeiro, the dancing kid-on-the-street in the Pepsi commercial with Michael Jackson, joins Silver Spoons as Jason Bate-man moves on to his own series. On Gimme a Break, Nell's friend Addy (Thelma Hopkins) becomes a regular.

AfterMASH gets a new, no-nonsense hospital administrator.

Hill Street gets a new roll-call sergeant (Robert Prosky), and Stephen Furst, who was Flounder in "Animal House," joins St. Elsewhere as a regular—Kim Miyori and Paul Sand are gone. Trapper John's son appears in the hospital as a hell-raising intern, and Matt Houston's uncle (Buddy Ebsen) joins the show. The "A" in A-Team stands for "all male" this year, as Marla Heasley is married off, while Patricia McPherson returns to Knight Rider in the role she played two years ago. On T.J. Hooker, wheelchair-bound Hugh Farrington joins the cast in a recurring role.

Whew! Now the tough part. On Knots Landing, Joshua Rush (Alec Baldwin) arrives with his backpack looking for news of his mother from the woman he thinks is his aunt (Julie Harris)—is he really her lost, illegitimate son? On Dallas, Donna Reed is the new Miss Ellie, while Jamie (Jenilee Harrison) arrives unexpectedly at Southfork claiming to be a close but hitherto unknown relative of the Ewings, and Mandy Winger (Deborah Shelton) becomes involved with Cliff Barnes and J.R. On Dynasty, Billy Dee Williams, Diahann Carroll and Catherine Oxenberg join the cast, as Geoffrey Scott, Kathleen Beller and Deborah Adair depart. Falcon Crest adds Gina Lollobrigida as Jane Wyman's half sister, Simon MacCorkindale (Manimal) as a young lawyer who gets romantically involved with several women, Parker Stevenson, who stirs up trouble as the ex-husband of Laura Johnson, and Paul Freeman as neo-Nazi Gustav Riebman. Then there's Kate Vernon, who plays David Selby's stepdaughter... oh, forget it. What ever happened to The Odd Couple? (END)
